

Date	Name	Title
10.11.2020	José Ledesma	Developing a broad knowledge framework for riparian zones across ecoregions.
	Nuria Basdediós	Base metal stocks and fluxes along a 127-yr glacial retreat chronosequence with fast vegetation development.
17.11.2020	Lioba Martin	Isotopic evidence for large gaseous nitrogen losses from tropical rainforests.
	Nico Lamneck	The influence of C ₃ and C ₄ vegetation on soil organic matter dynamics in contrasting semi-natural tropical ecosystems.
24.11.2020	Laetizia Herbertz Annika Koitzsch Lena Siegel	Accelerated degradation of organic matter by arbuscular mycorrhiza.
	Paula Hartman Lioba Martin Maren Michalek	Do the stable isotope ratios of the non-exchangeable hydrogen in clay minerals depend on particle size?
01.12.2020	Nico Lamneck Manuel Popp Patrizia Töpfer	Changes in C isotope ratios of dissolved organic matter with time along the water path.
	Bianca Grieser Daniel Ensslin	Influence of climate on the weathering kinetics of soils along an elevational gradient from 1000-3000 m above sea level in south Ecuador.
08.12.2020	Svenja Stock	Importance of arbuscular mycorrhizal fungi for plant nutrient acquisition under drought.
	Pablo Alvarez	δ ¹³ C values in dissolved organic matter of a tropical montane forest.
15.12.2020	No seminar.	Presentations W3 Professorship Regional Science
 Christmas holidays ***
12.01.2021	Annie Schlöffel	Influence of arbuscular mycorrhiza on the leaching of macronutrients from grassland soils.
	Vera Zimmer	Influence of land-use intensity and associated biodiversity on the water budget of Central European forest ecosystems.
19.01.2021	Esthela González	Afforestation of degraded tropical soils in the south Ecuadorian Amazonia: Does biochar help?
26.01.2021	Bastian Bayer	Critical nitrogen concentrations in soil solution of protected habitats.
02.02.2021	Stefan Merseburger	Hydrogen isotopes in soil clay fractions: Linking precipitation and recent soil formation.
09.02.2021	Andre Velescu	Response of alkali metal fluxes to moderate N, P and Ca additions in a tropical montane forest in Ecuador.